

Born on the Scottish Border, Edwin Hopper was brought up in West Africa before spending his teenage years in Bristol England. In east Africa in his twenties and thirties, he was a prospector, surveyor, accountant, hotelier, cotton ginner and tobacco man. He married Dineen in 1978 and settled back in England. Work as a shop owner, temping-labourer, salesman and garage mechanic followed before a period as a civil servant. He lives in the heart of the English countryside.

The copyright © of these stories remains with the author, Edwin Hopper. Edwin Hopper has no objection to anyone downloading or copying the stories in any way. Anyone may give a copy to a third party.

However no one may sell or trade or re write or remake the stories in any medium, including motion picture, without negotiating with Edwin Hopper or his accredited agents.

Under the publication requirements of the United States Copyright Act section 407 and 704, three copies (CDs) have been lodged with the Library of Congress Collection. Electronic copies (CDs) have been deposited with the British library under the Legal Deposit Libraries Act 2003.

Edwin Hopper complied with the British Copyright Acts of 1911 and 1963 by depositing electronic copies (CDs) of all stories with the five legal deposit libraries as follows.

The Bodleian library, Oxford.
The University Library, Cambridge.
The National Library of Scotland.
The Library of trinity College, Dublin.
The National Library of Wales.

With the above copyright registrations completed, copyright will automatically extend to all Berne

Copyright Convention Countries, Universal Copyright Convention Countries and Rome Convention
Countries and members of the World Trade Organisation.